Register for eBay to manage your payments

Getting paid for items you've sold on eBay is simple. Your buyers can choose from a range of payment methods, eBay manages the end-to-end payments process, and you receive your funds directly in your checking account.

If you're a new seller on eBay, you can register by creating a listing using the button below. You can also see our page on registering as a seller for more information.

Create a listing

Once you've registered as a seller, you can start selling on eBay. To comply with applicable laws, we'll ask you for additional information to complete verification. Verifying your details helps you avoid any delays in receiving your payouts.

Register for eBay to manage your payments

To sell on eBay, you must be registered for eBay to manage your payments. If you haven't signed up yet, you'll be guided through the registration process the next time you create a listing. Alternatively, you can register for eBay to manage your payments by updating your account settings.

Once you've registered, you can get back to selling items on eBay. Once you've completed registration, your item will be listed. You can also relist any items that are in your Unsold folder.

Until you complete registration, eBay may restrict your ability to list, including, without limitation, restricting new listings, restricting changes to existing listings, or ending listings.

If you use third-party tools to help manage your listings, inventory, finances, or refunds, there should be no change in how you use those tools.

Our video below has more information about linking your checking account during registration.
